GREENSBORO TELEGRAM.

VOL. VII. NO. 90. GREENSBORO, N. C., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1900. Price Five Cents

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Grant Bros., brokers, on the wrong side of the market, assigned today in New York. It is stated that the failure was caused by the embezzlement of $190,000 by clerks.

Mrs. Hancock, wife of Captain Hancock, about to sail on the transport Kilpatrick for the Philippines, has disappeared. She was shopping with her sister on Sixth avenue, New York, and excused herself for a moment, and has not been seen since.

The Echo de Paris says a telegram has been received stating that Queen Draga of Servia, whose marriage to young King Alexander caused such a sensation a few months ago, is dead.

DOES NOT APPROVE OF FRAUD.

And Thinks That If The Telegram Has Any Information It Should Speak Out.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

I am glad to see that you have been called to account for the statement that the Democratic machinery was used to defeat Gen. Carr. When I saw the article referred to in your paper, I thought it unjust to make such a statement, but decided to let it pass and say nothing, but when you attempt to explain yourself to Mr. Brooks, it seems to me that you make matters worse. You say that Mr. Simmons and his subordinate took advantage of their official positions to work in his behalf. Do you mean that every county chairman had to do, or did do, just as Mr. Simmons said in this matter, and that he did instruct them to use the party machinery, (which is run by money contributed by Democrats, regardless of Senatorial preferences), to defeat Mr. Carr? If you know these things to be true, I think every man of them should be exposed. I do not approve of fraud any more in political matters than I do in business matters, but if you don't know them to be true, then I think your insinuation is entrely out of order. Were our county chairmen not free men, to think and act as they pleased in this matter? Both candidates claimed to be true Democrats. They were not required to support Mr. Simmons on account of their official position, were they? If you know ahything let the people know it, so they can turn the rascals out.

J. M. HENDRIX.

Might Find a Smart Alec About Town Who Could Answer.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

I regret that you failed, for some reason, to answer my simple inquiry in Saturday's Telegram. But with a "This is too patent for dispute" air brushed it aside, and made other extravagant assertions along the same line as those in your editorial of the 7th. "Crying aloud the truth" without giving any further evidence of facts in the case might not have the desired effect. You say "we simply meant that he and his subordinates took advantage." How do you know they did. Give us light. I would think that you are so well posted as to organization and workings of the party machinery (especially the Democrat party) that you would be at no loss to explain the why's and wherefores. But if you are unable to tell how General Carr was defeated by "the machinery of the party" perhaps you might find a smart Alec or two about town who could.

Respectfully,

T. T. BROOKS.

A High Point Citizen Saw the Punishment of Mr. Hockett.

High Point Enterprise.

Last week we copied from The Telegram an article from Mr. Hodgin, relating the experience of Mr. Hockett, a Quaker who refused to bear arms in the late war, although subjected to severe treatment. Mr. S. A. Chandler, of High Point, tells the Enterprise that he was in the same company with Mr. Hockett and was an eye-witness to all that has been related about the affair except that he never knew anything about the orders to shoot Mr. Hockett. Mr. Chandler says that the punishment was quite severe, Mr. Hockett being gagged for over a day and a night at a time.

The Paris Exposition closed last night.

DEATH IN AN OPERA HOUSE.

A DRINKING NEGRO MAKES A LUNGE OVER THE BANISTER TO DEATH.

A Charlotte Audience Listening to Comic Opera is Startled by the Sudden Introduction of Sure Enough Tragedy—A Stampede Narrowly Averted.

Last night a man met his death in the opera house of Charlotte. It occurred at the conclusion of the first act of "The Mascot." The Observer says:

Up in the gallery, in the space that is reserved for colored people, Frank Campbell, an employee of Eyler & Hayman, had been boisterous during the first act, and had been twice requested to keep silence. At the conclusion of the act he rose from his seat saying that "he never expected to come back again." With several other negroes he made a rush for the narrow stairway, and as he got about half way down he threw a leg over the banisters as if he purposed to slide down. The impetus of his body—and he was drinking—threw him over the railing, and he fell to the floor below, a distance of about seven feet. His head struck first—just above the right eye—and his body doubled up and he lay still.

The opera house was filled with people. They heard the fall and when it became reported that a man had been killed it seemed for a minute as if there might be a stampede among the spectators in the rear part of the house and in the galleries. But those composing the audience in the central part of the room, in the pit area, which included a large proportion of Charlotte's society folk, kept their seats, with the exception of a number of men who counselled the quiet that soon prevailed.

"IN DARKEST RUSSIA."

The Una Clayton Company Presents the Play Acceptably to a Very Large Audience.

The Academy of Music (supreme fecitiousness) was crowded to its utmost capacity last night to witness the Una Clayton Company's presentation of "In Darkest Russia." All the seats had been sold long before night, and by the time the play began standing room had risen to a premium.

This company came thoroughly recommended as the best popular price entertainment on the road in the South this season. Last night it thoroughly sustained this reputation, and if it keeps up as it has begun during the remainder of its engagement here, that reputation will be added to.

The company's work last night was handicapped by its inability to use its own scenery owing to the smallness of the stage. In the opening scene, "The Grand Palace of St. Petersburg," scarcely any of it could be used. In "Ilda Barosky" Miss Clayton was excellent, and the audience followed her with great interest throughout the play. The company supports her well, several members doing exceptionally good work.

The Glees, the novelty musical artists, the ladies' orchestra, and the cornet solo by Miss Hattie Fuller, were especially fine. The company is strong in its specialties.

Tonight will be given "The Midnight Masquerade," a four act comedy drama. This has never been presented here before. Miss Clayton will give a specialty, as will also the Hewlettes, comedy slack wire-walkers.

There will be a matinee tomorrow at 3 p. m., "The Sultan's Daughter," a comedy in three acts. Prices ten and twenty cents.

BURGLARS STRIKE DOWN A WOMAN.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Orrin W. Potter, wife of the steel magnate, was struck down this morning by a burglar in her palatial residence on the Lake Shore, after an attempt had been made to chloroform her. She is now lying in care of physicians, while the police are trying to capture the burgular. The burglar used steel knuckles in striking her.

MEETING AT FRIENDS' CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Chilson Preaches the Truth as He Sees it and Declares the "Whole Counsel."

Communicated.

The meeting now in progress at the Friends Church promises to be attended with much blessing. The opening song service last evening, conducted by Mr. Lee, prepared the way for a blessed season of prayer and praise. The theme of the sermon following this was The "Necessity and Evidences of the New Birth." The preacher, Rev. Arthur Chilson, is earnest and original, seldom resorting to the conventional "firstly, secondly, thirdly."

He is not afraid to proclaim the hign Bible standard of Christian doctrine and practice, and fearlessly declares "the whole counsel of God," as he understands it.

There will be services daily at 3 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m., and at the same hours for several successive days.

The amount involved in this litigation is about $12,000.

NEVER REAPED A REWARD.

Inventor of the Motor Car Died Poor and Neglected Amidst the Plenty of Paris.

On January 24, 1860, M. Lenoir, a chemist, was granted a patent for a motor driven by an explosive mixture of air and gas. He even used electric ignition, obtained from a battery and Ruhmkoef coil, and actuating a sparking plug very similar to the style in vogue to-day. He employed coal gas at first, but in his specification said that he could use other gases, or even produce a gas at the requisite moment from hydro-carbon liquids, thereby foreshadowing the employment of petroleum. The system of valves, by means of which the suction of the piston drew in the charge of gas for the next explosion, was also designed by Lenoir, and still remains the governing principle in explosion engines. So that in 40 years that have elapsed since Lenoir's motor there have been few radical changes.

In 1862 he produced a car driven by one of his motors, and this accomplished some short trips in the streets of Paris, after which, for some reason, it made no further progress. He seemed to have no luck, his invention was premature and beyond the gratification of his hobby he had no appreciation

Fifteen years went by before another man attempted a motor car again, and it was not till 1887 that Daimler produced his first car, which, to do him justice, was the earliest of the really practicable vehicles.

Poor Lenoir lived to see the motor industry attain enormous dimensions, to see honors and wealth heaped on other men, and died in humble circumstances without honor or reward.

TAKING PHOTOS OF SOUND.

A Number of Successful Experiments Have Recently Been Made by Scientists.

Very much has been done in the way of obtaining photographic records of sound, but perhaps the most important memoir on the practical side of this question is an article by Benjamin F. Sharpe, says a scientific exchange. When an unmixed tone is received in a Helmholtz resonator, in the wall of which is inserted a very thin glass plate, the natural pitch of which is not too different from the tone, the plate vibrates to the tone with an amplitude having an ultimate relation to the energy of the tone. Measurement of this amplitude becomes easy if the vibrating plate is made to bear a tiny mirror, which mirror forms one element of a system of mirrors constituting a Michelson's refractometer.

So delicate is this means of indication that a shifting of the mirror half a wave length of light will cause such a shifting to one side of the interference bands that each dark band will take the position previously occupied by the next dark band. With a telescope and micrometer each band may with proper adjustment be subdivided into 100 parts, giving a means of recording a shift equal to as little as one two-hundredth of a wave length. It need scarcely be said that the rapid shifts thus produced by a tone can only be observed by some such device as compounding the motion with another at right angles, when comparison with a tuning fork and the making of photographic records becomes possible, but for details, and for some two dozen of the records thus obtained, we must refer our readers to Nature. The records show fork tones, tones of musical instruments, noises and vocal sounds.

A STATE REFORM SCHOOL.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE ONE SITUATED AT LANSING, MICHIGAN.

Mrs. Craven, Corresponding Secretary of the North Carolina W. C. T. U., Writes for Information and Receives a Very Instructive Letter—Michigan Institution Was Established in 1855 and Now Has 500 Boys Between the Ages of Ten and Seventeen.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

Will you publish the letter given below, which was received from the Superintendent of the Reform School at Lansing, Mich., by Mrs. C. E Craven, corresponding secretary of the North Carolina W. C. T. U?

Mrs C. E. Craven,
Cor. Sec. N. C. W. C. T. U.,
Concord, North Carolina.

DEAR MADAM:—

In answer to yours of July 28th, I would say that it is impossible to give very much information in detail regarding an Institution of this kind in one letter. I will first give you a little history of this Institution. It was established in 1855. We have about 650 boys at present. We have about 500 out on leave of absence all over the State. Our boys are received between the ages of 10 and 16 to remain until 17 unless sooner released. We keep them here on an average of about two years when, if they have fair homes, we send them home on leave of absence conditioned on their good behavior until the expiration of their term of commitment. The Board is the releasing power having authority to release by leave of absence or discharge any inmate at any time. Our boys are taught trades as follows:—Carpentering, shoemaking, baking, tailoring, printing, engineering, painting and farming. We have 260 acres of land. We ought to have an acre of land to a boy. We have at present $60,000 a year appropriated by the Legislature for running expenses. It costs about $112 per year per capita. With a smaller Institution the cost would be a little more per capita. We have 50 employes, and 12 school rooms. Our boys are in school 4½ hours each day and work 4½ hours each day in alternation. Our Institution is partially on the congregated system, but largely on the family system. Nearly all our boys live in cottages, 50 in a family. These families are presided over by a gentleman and his wife, his wife being the teacher and the gentleman having charge of some other department. We work all the way from 10 to 200 boys on the farm through the summer, raising all the vegetables used in the Institution. We use 5 barrels of flour every day for baking and bake every morning. It takes 12 bushels of potatoes for a meal. We do not manufacture anything in the Institution that brings in any revenue. We do not believe in it. All our time and attention is given to training the boys in such a way as to benefit them in after life. We plan on having our boys self-supporting when they leave the school, or nearly so according to their ability. The boys who are out on leave of absence are doing well. I do not just know what percentage of our boys become self-supporting citizens, but it is estimated that about 90 per cent. of them do well. It is the opinion of the people of Michigan that this Institution is most assuredly a paying Institution, as one of our governors remarked several years ago that if it cost a per capita of $5,000 and the Institution only saved one boy, if that happened to be his boy, he should think it paid. This institution was built formerly for a House of Correction, but the bolts, bars and walls have all been removed and it is now a very fine Institution conducted on the open system. I have been connected with the school for 27 years. Have been superintendent 7 years today and the boys are having a special holiday on account of its being my 7th anniversary. Nearly all of our boys are quite low in their grades when coming to the school. I would say in regard to the limit of age that 18 years, in my opinion, is preferable to 17 and I presume our law will be changed in that respect. We average something over 300 commitments a year. We raise from 7,000 to 8,000 dollars' worth of produce on our farm each year.

I will send you under separate cover one of our last reports which is nearly two years old, and one of the papers which we publish in our printing office.

Hoping this will be satisfactory to you, I remain,

Very respectfully,
J. E. ST. JOHN,
Superintendent.

Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking spot, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff.

THE TRUE PROPHET.

Under Whose Leadership Was the Party Twice Victorious and Under Whose Twice Defeated?

Junius, in Charlotte Observer.

But what of the true prophet: It was he who said: "The pension roll should be a roll of honor," and then vetoed more fraudulent pension bills than all the other Presidents put together. It was he who said: "Public office is a public trust," and then proceeded to administer the high office of President of these United States strictly in accordance with the trusts and duties conferred upon him by the constitution and laws of the country. It was he who clung to the old-fashioned idea that the people had elected him President, and not an official disburser of offices, at the will and command of seedy Senators and backwoods Congressmen, and proceeded to enforce the idea that a party could not "be held together by the cohesive power of public plunder," by driving the political money changers from the White House and from Washington. Every trust committed to him he faithfully and fearlessly executed. Every pledge he made the American people he honestly kept; and every prophecy he uttered has been fulfilled. Three times have the sovereign Democrats of the nation made him their party leader. and twice under that leadership has the victory been won. Twice has Mr. Bryan received a like commission at the hands of the same party, and twice has he been ignominously defeated. Again I ask, who is the false prophet, and who the true?

When the new leaders took charge of the Democratic party in 1896 they found it in control of the presidency, both branches of Congress and more than half the States. Since then they have been in supreme control of the party machinery, and had committed to them the undisputed management of the two national campaigns which have taken place within that time. What have they to show as the fruits of their stewardship? Nothing but defeat, overwhelming and ignominous, everywhere and every time they have gone before the people, except in the South where the issue is one of race domination, and even there considerable inroads have been made by the enemy.

HYPNOTIZED INTO HEAVEN.

A Man for Whom the Gallows Had No Fears—Was He Hypnotized?

Columbus, O., Dispatch, 9th.

Richard Gardner was put to death here early this morning, and his death suggests a new means of taking from murderers the terrors of the death chair. Gardner entered the death chamber with a smile upon his face and took the chair in as firm a manner as though he were sitting down to a meal. The change in the man's manner from abject fear to indifference is explainable on the theory that Gardner had been subjected to a slow process of hypnotic suggestion carried on for about two weeks by which he had attained the belief he was being sent directly to heaven.

About two weeks ago under the influence of the prison chaplain Gardner was induced to make a full confession but first made a contract with a local newspaper by which he received $35 for telling it. At that time he was an example of the hardened criminal and told with a smile the details of his murder of a thirteen-year-old girl. Since then he has been practically under the control of the chaplain, who led Gardner to believe that his soul was saved by the confession, so that he approached the chair without a tremor.

Before the electric current was turned on he read a few verses from the Bible. His imitation of the voice and manner of the chaplain who stood directly in front of him was not noticeable, and it is believed that his reading was the direct result of suggestion, as Gardner was illiterate. When asked if he had anything to say he replied "God is love." He had the appearance of being in a hypnotic trance.

Let the Floaters Go.

Asheville Citizen, Simmons Supporter.

The Democrats were actively engaged in a fight among themselves over the senatorship. The floaters were neglected in the fervor of the strife, and the Republicans captured the entire outfit.

"That's a great heater you put in for us," remarked the tenant enthusiastically. "Keeps you good and warm, eh?" queried the landlord. "Warm! Why, when we get through raking and shaking it trying to make it burn the family has to retire to the yard to cool off.

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa, when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. Kings' New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mrs. John Oliver, of Philadeldhia, was the object, is narrated by him as follows; 'I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

"How do you like this soap? asked the barber, carefully depositing the brush in the patron's mouth. "Some say it's better than the last." "That," replied the customer, "is only a matter of taste."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1900.

WHAT SHALL WE DO?

The town of Greensboro has for the past few years enjoyed exceptional prosperity. In a short time it has been transformed from a more modest town to one among the most hustling of North Carolina's little cities.

The question now is how can we best promote a continuance of that prosperity. How shall our people so act along united lines for the purpose of accomplishing some of the many things that will add to the prosperity of the city and advance our prestige as a business, educational, and industrial centre? How can we so act as to cause the surplus capital already in the city to be put into profitable labor-employing channels, and also to bring new capital in? A city's growth depends upon the action of its citizens.

Let us have an indutsrial and business revival. We take it that our people are not satisfied with our present progess, rapid and excellent as it has been and is. The city is now only seeing what it can do. We invite communications along this line. Let our people speak out. Are there not yet even some things we might do to vast advantage? What say our business people?

THE LATEST VICTORY FOR SCIENCE.

Scientific discovery travels at an ever increasing pace. Way back yonder when our progenitors wore skin trousers and went barefooted and bareheaded, science was a mighty slow animal, but after a while when our folks began wearing whole suits and changed their exclusive raw flesh diet to one of cooked meat and bread, she began to do just a little better, and by and by grew faster and faster, until she had taught man that to keep up with her meant to do great things, and his efforts to do so culminated in the power and skill necessary for the construction of the wonderful pyramids. Then the race left off petting and feeding and grooming her, and she languished, so that after awhile the race had to be commenced all over again. Since then it has come along very chipper till the present, getting faster and faster all the time till now it is fairly flying, and no hurdle is too high to be jumped, no hill too steep to be climbed, and science balks at nothing.

Count Zepelin has not only invented a flying machine, but it has been bought by the German government to be used in war. That was a pretty good scientific invention, but it was equalled by the still more scientific discovery that mosquitos are the purveyors of malaria. Such discoveries and inventions as these are away ahead of Sir Isaac's apple affair and Tom Edison's talking machines. The still more recent discovery of the possibility of squirting something in a patient's backbone that will enable him to see his legs cut off or his eyes taken out without pain while yet his consciousness remains, is something ahead of the old brag job of taking out a man's liver, scraping it off, and putting it back. But ahead of all these there is something yet.

This newest and longest reach of science is told of in a dispatch from Columbus, Ohio, which tells of a murderer being hypnotized into heaven. In view of the well known custom that murderers have of stepping off the gallows into heaven without the help of science, we submit that this latest scientific discovery is rather a useless one, but it is great, nevertheless. We are told that the condemned man was gradually transformed by the glance of the chaplain until he became the picture of happ ness, and repeated in the exact manne and voice the words of the good man, and that altogether the hanging affair was a very small matter to him. We are rather inclined to congratulate science on this last accomplishment, but we shall wait a while and see how it works

The Telegram cordially invites communications on all subjects. When our readers agree or disagree with us we should be glad to have th m say so if they desire. Those who disagree are just as welcome as those who agree. We shall show all equal fairness, and give space for all articles that are proper for publication. Our friends need not be afraid of hurting our feelings by "firing into" us. We do not agree with everybody and we don't expect everybody to agree with us, and what's more, we shall not get mad at them for saying so.

When Buller went to South Africa he was heralded as "The Man of Blood," who would put an end to the war in a few weeks. Yesterday, he arrived in London with his wife and daughter and reported at the war office, a defeated and an undone man. No doubt some of the Boers left down in Africa will find time to get some consolation out of this case by piously quoting "How are the mighty fallen!"

AMULETS IN GREAT DEMAND.

A Fad That Is Growing in Popularity Among Women, But Really Demands Careful Study.

Amulets and lucky stones of one sort and another are becoming more and more popular with women, and the bangle of detested memory is revived in a more romantic and interesting form. The modern girl is decidedly up in fetichism and though some frivolous fair ones wear jeweled cows and pigs and lizards and shamrocks and bells and boots indiscriminately and impartially, the really up-to-date young woman chooses her talismans fastidiously and is learned in talismanic lore, says the New York Sun.

To be really wise and occult one must go in for astrology and choose one's talismans in accordance with the symbols of the planet under whose influence one was born; but it is asking too much of the modern society girl to insist upon her adding astrology to her already depressing repertoire. Still it doesn't require much research to find out whether Capricorn or Cancer or some other Zodiacal sign is most appropriate for one's lucky piece.

For general mascot purposes a white elephant is about as satisfactory as anything one could choose. There is nothing exclusive about him. Like the rain, he patronizes both the just and the unjust, and he is a terror to evil spirits of all sorts and varieties. In the far east he is worn in all sizes and materials, and the more white elephants one can introduce into household decorations the surer one is of domestic felicity. The idea ought to be adopted by western decorators. If a frieze of white elephants could foil the divorce courts it would be worth having.

The pig, too, is a fair success as understudy to one's guardian angel, and serpents bring blessings; but a lizard is a hoodoo of the most fatal sort, and the amount of harm being done by jeweled lizards is beyond calculation. Boot and shoe ornaments, which have become so popular, are also inimical to happiness, and as for tiny bells—well, only a brave and dauntless soul can wear them and come out with life and morals intact. Their tinkling, as is well understood by every student of the occult, calls up all evil spirits within hearing, and the wearer of a bell bangle lives in a Walpurgis Nacht crowd.

The short life and violent death of the average love affair is intelligible when one realizes that by all the laws of fetichism the exchanging between lovers of hair or any ornament in shape of a heart is a sure token of disaster. Some philanthropist should have made a crusade in behalf of ignorant lovers, and have explained the evil occult influence of hair and hearts, in emotional matters; but men and maids have been allowed to rush on their fate unwarned.

The four-leaved clover loses all its efficacy as a good omen when it leaves the hand that gathered it; and indeed no charm green in color should be worn, as it is more than likely to bring a misfortune in its wake. The left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit that was caught in the light of the moon has its virtues, but no other rabbit's foot is worth pocket room, and even the powerful piece of a rope by which a man has hanged himself will bring nothing but ill luck to the possessor if the suicide happened to be born under the influence of Saturn.

Altogether, the intricacies of the mascot question are many and devious, and no one should go in for charms recklessly. The twentieth century is, so say the prophets, to be especially noted for its fatal accidents; and that being the case, mascots should be in great demand, but unless one has time to study the hidden mysteries of occult lore it would perhaps be safer to stick to the benign and ever amiable white elephant.

TABLE CHINA.

The Old Style Matched Sets Are No Longer Regarded as in Good Taste.

The term "table china," by a certain license of phrase, has come to include all pottery used on the table, whether it be a fine porcelain or an opaque earthenware. The old-fashioned idea that all the tableware should match has been given up long ago by people of good taste, says the New York Tribune. It is the exception rather than the rule for housekeepers to purchase an entire set of table china in one pattern. A great many of the pieces formerly included in a full dinner service are no longer used on the table. It therefore happens that the purchaser of a full set can buy it at considerable reduction on its former price; but at the same time she must take many pieces—some quite expensive ones, like the soup tureen—which she will never be likely to use outside the limits of the kitchen or the pantry. The high compotiers, which were generally a part of the old china set, are seldom used to-day. Fashion has decreed that lower and more tasteful dishes, which do not obstruct the view across the table, shall be used in their place. Yet, the manufacturers of china have gone on making sets of something over 200 pieces, including an expensive soup tureen, compotiers and other practically valueless pieces. It is wiser, therefore, to buy a set of such pieces as one needs for the table service of the roast and some other dinner courses, with coffee and tea cups and saucers, there being in addition special china sets for the soup, the dessert and the salad courses, or any other courses that one may prefer to serve in a special china.

A great deal of taste may be shown in the choice of the proper china for the various dinner courses. Good taste decrees that the decoration of the plate designed to receive a clear consomme must be simple. The design must be confined to the border and a simple pattern in the center of the plate, in order to show to perfection the sparkling clearness of the soup. A cream soup or an opaque soup of any kind may be served in old Canton, or any rich or simple soup plates in one's possession. As this course is always put on the table in the individual plate, the soup tureen is a piece of kitchen china, and should be of strong earthenware, like other kitchen pieces. The platters for the roast and other services of meat match the ten-inch dinner plates, which are preferred in a simple, delicate design. A more ornate china is allowable for the game plates, platter and sauce boat than for the regular meat course. The game platter is rather small, while the largest platter used on the table is that used for the chief meat course. The game plate varies from one the size of a breakfast plate to one the size of a tea plate. The salad course allows the display of picturesque china. It consists of a flat salad bowl of ample dimensions, and small individual plates or saucers to match. Some of the prettiest salad sets are designed in Italian majolica after a lettuce leaf. Less expensive sets are shown in the same delicate medley of greens that blend so well with the colors of dinner salads. Glittering crystal, suggesting the clearness and coldness of ice, is often used for salad sets, but is too costly for ordinary use and too easily broken. The dessert service may be crystal or china. The most beautiful and elaborately designed china may be displayed in the dessert set and in the "harlequin" set of after dinner coffee cups, each one representing a different pattern and color. Charles Lamb confesses to "a feminine partiality for old china." He says: "When I go to see any great house I inquire for the china closet, and next for the picture gallery." China of tasteful color and pattern may be found to-day at a price that would have amazed our grandmothers. If we choose glaring colors and coarse patterns, "all to match," we have only ourselves to blame for it.

The Telegram's Tea Table Talk

There was one election bet made in Greensboro that has not yet been settled so far as the Talker's knowledge goes. The story has just leaked out, perhaps because the loser has failed to pay it. It was between a young lady and a young gentleman. The terms were that the one whose candidate lost should take the other driving. The young lady bet on Bryan. The vehicle for the drive was to be an ox cart.

"We need just now," said the president of a bank yesterday, "a public library. Greensboro needs it most of all right now. We are away behind in this particular. We flatter ourselves that our town is the educational hub of North Carolina yet we have no public library. True some of the schools here have libraries, but what we need is one for the public, one that all the town people may patronize I am willing to do my part towards any step in that direction."

* * *

The story is told on a new member of the Knights of Pythias. It is ordinarially supposed that when a man is about to be initiated into the secrets of the high muck-a-mucks of any of the orders, he is on tip toe with excitement and curiosity. And many have been known to exercise a great amount of dread also. Not so with the individual in question. On the night he was to be taken in, the proceedings seemed to be a little slow, whereupon he asked if matters couldn't be hurried up, as he was very anxious to get off in time to go to a corn shucking near town.

* * *

"It's surprising how far temperance has been advanced within the recollection of men not yet very old," remarked Register of Deeds Kirkman to a crowd of visitors in his popular resort yesterday, enjoying his good log fire. "The great corporations have helped the work along a great deal. It used to be the usual thing when there was a railroad wreck to hear the remark, 'I guess the engineer was drunk as usual.' That reminded one of the hearers that he had had a relative killed in a wreck caused by a drunken conductor. This conductor put his head out of the window, and lost his hat and had the train stopped to get it. While it was waiting a freight train ran into it and there was the wreck, and the dead. "Now," continued Mr. Kirkman, "the big corporations and especially the railroads, will not employ men who drink. They are beginning to shut out the cigarette smokers, too. They have done much for temperance."

The Wood's Full of 'Em.

In an article in the Charlotte Observer on the Senatorial question, Mr. John R. Morris says:

"If the Democratic party should have a primary to choose a successor to Senator Pritchard, then what we have seen and heard in the contest between Furnifold Manifold Simmons and Jule General Carr will be as a country shindig to an earthquake.

"The whole western part of North Carolina, from Greensboro to Murphy, is swarming with candidates; and, in the late campaign, most of these were stumpers on the stump, without, however, revealing themselves as seekers."

"It was pitch dark," said the narrator; "the wind was biting and——" "A wind bite?" interposed the word splitter with an incredulous air. "Yes," boldly returned the man with the story; "didn't you ever hear of th e teeth of a gale?"

For Our Lady Readers

8104—Ladies' Tailor Made Waist.
32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inch bust.

LADIES' TAILOR MADE WAIST, NO. 8104.

Metal gray Venetian is here affectively trimmed with ivory taffeta and black ribbon velvet.

The waist is mounted on a glove fitted lining which closes in the centre front, the seams and darts being featherboned. The backs are smooth across the shoulders and display no fullness at the waist line. The perfect adjustment under the arms is obtained by using an underarm gore.

The fronts are fitted with single bust darts, and fastened with small velvet buttons. They are deeply underfaced with white taffeta and turned back to form broad revers, which are trimmed with rows of black velvet ribbon latticed at the corners.

The plastron is permanently attached to the right lining front and fastens invisibly on the left side. The collar is trimmed with ribbon, also the flaring cuffs which complete the close fitting two-piece sleeves. The slight fullness on the shoulders is distributed in small gathers. The narrow velvet belt fastens in front with a silver buckle.

Many people worry because they believe they have heart disease. The chances are that their hearts are all right but their stomachs are unable to digest food. Kodol Dyspepsia cure digests what you eat and prevents the formation of gas which makes the stomach press against the heart. It will cure every form of indigestion. Howard Gardner.

SHE GOT THE SEAT.

How a Clever Woman Makes a Man "Give Up" in a Philadelphia Street Car.

"In the matter of strategy a woman can get the better of a man every time, in minor affairs, at least," said a man who is in business downtown, and who rides home in a West Philadelphia car during the rush hour every evening, relates the Philadelphia Record. "I usually get a seat, for I take the car away down at Fourth street. The other evening I was busily reading my paper when a woman got aboard at Twelfth street. I glanced up slyly and saw that all the seats were occupied. Hasty as my glance was she caught my eye and that was my finish. Smiling broadly, she came over to where I was sitting and exclaimed: 'Why, how do you do? How are all the folks?' I couldn't place the woman to save my life, but I lifted my hat and replied that we were all well. 'She must be some friend of the family,' I argued with myself, so I folded up my paper and gave her my seat. After she had settled herself comfortably she looked up at me in a queer sort of way and said: 'Really, I must beg your pardon. I took you for Mr. Jones. You look so much like him.' But she had the seat and she kept it. It was a clear case of bunko."

A WONDERFUL WATCH.

One in Maryland Known as a Matile, Which Aroused Mark Twain's Admiration.

What is perhaps the most wonderful watch in the world is in the possession of a resident of Prince Gregory county, Maryland, says the Washington Times.

This remarkable timepiece, known as the Matile watch, from the name of its maker, was made at Looe, Switzerland, about 40 years ago. It formed a feature of the Swiss exhibit at the centennial held at Philadelphia in 1876, and was purchased on that occasion by its present owner. A description of the watch by Mark Twain (S. L. Clemens) is as remarkable for accuracy as it is humorous. The well-known writer thus gives his impressions of the marvelous piece of mechanism:

"I have examined the wonderful watch made by H. L. Matile, and, indeed, it comes nearer to being a human being than any piece of mechanism I ever saw before. In fact, it knows considerably more than the average voter. It knows the movements of the moon, and keeps exact record of them; it tells the day of the week, the date of the month, and the month of the year, and will do this perpetually; it tells the hour of the day, and the minute, and the second, and even splits the second into fifths, and marks the division by stop hands, having two of the latter; it can take accurate care of two race horses that start, not together, but one after another; it is a repeater (wherein the voter is suggested again), and musically chimes the hour, the quarter, the half and the three-quarter hour, and also the minutes that have passed of an uncompleted quarter-hour, so that a blind man can tell the time of day by it to the exact minute.

Such is this extraordinary watch. It ciphers to admiration. I should think one could add another wheel and make it read and write, still another and make it talk; and I think one might take out several of the wheels that are already in it and it would still be a more intelligent citizen than some that help to govern the country. On the whole, I think it is entitled to vote—that is, if its sex is of the right kind."

The watch was sold for $1,400, and it is still performing its complex functions with the greatest regularity.

GOOD ADVICE.

The most miserable things in the world are those suffering from dyspepsia and liver complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects: such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual costiveness, palpitation of the heart, heart-burn, waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, yellow skin, coated tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, etc. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

A GOOD THING.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It quickly cures coughs, colds and all lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cts. You can't afford to risk your life by allowing a cough or cold to develop into pneumonia or consumption. One Minute Cough Cure will cure throat and lung troubles quicker than any other preparation known. Many doctors use it as a specific for grippe. It is an infallible remedy for croup. Children like it and mothers endorse it. Howard Gardner.
